2. The member of our staff who is in direct charge of this work is [ ] who has found it desirable in order to facilitate this work to have an official connection with the Bureau of the Census as well as the Central Intelligence Agency. He consequently made informal inquiry with regard to the possibility and, more expeditiously than he had expected, was informed that he had been appointed a consultant with the Bureau of the Census subsequent to taking the oath of office.

3. The arrangement is a highly desirable one but before [ ] takes the oath of office under this arrangement we would like to know that it is entirely proper for him to do so. The arrangement will involve no compensation or responsibilities other than those in relation to the work the Census is performing for the Central Intelligence Agency. It is designed merely to facilitate [ ] relations with the various units of the Census that may be involved and with the other outside agencies, such as the professional associations in the field of population, which [ ] may find it necessary to contact from time to time.
